Succulent's

Succulents are fast becoming a popular favorite among households and landscapers. With their brilliant colors and easy care they are a great addition to your garden or landscape.

Plant your succulent's in a sunny well drained area, full sun for best color. Once established water occasional and divide clumps as needed.

Taking care of your succulents are easy. Just remember to water them correctly. An under watered plant will first stop growing, then begin to shed leaves or develop brown spots on the leaves. Overwatered plants are soft and discolored.

During the summer growing season, fertilize as you would with other houseplants. Stop fertilizing entirely during the winter.
