HUNGARIAN HOT PEPPER

This Banana Pepper look-a-like is a medium sized, waxy, yellow perennial averaging 6-8" long. Its best flavor is found when eaten in its ripe yellow state.

They prefer heat, but will grow well in cool climates in the garden or in a container. Other enticing conditions for this hot pepper include well drained soil and protection from temperature fluctuations and wind. It is also known as the hot yellow pepper or hot wax pepper.

Harvest Instructions

Harvest when color turns pale yellow to pale green, for a spicier flavor wait till the pepper reaches full maturity and turns red-orange.

The "wax" in its name is in reference to the slightly waxy texture of the rind of its paper. Do not be afraid to eat it though, as this rind is surprisingly flavorful.
