Viola - 'Penny Yellow Jump Ups'

Sunny yellow faces with deep purple wings make these Penny Viola Yellow Jump Ups a lovely accent wherever you choose to put them! Mix these bright beauties with Goldcrest Mums and Puff Asters for a cheerful combination.

Violas have a distinct pattern in the way they bloom. They have a semi-trailing habit and are very versatile and adaptive, making them a great addition to a hanging basket or patio pot. The Penny variety has an extreme weather tolerance. They will continue to flower through the winter in mild climates and will pick up where they left off once the snow melts off the plants. They flower earlier and longer than other fall plants, even in low light.

Plant violas in well-prepared sunny to partly shady beds, making sure they soak up at least three hours of sun a day. The soil should stay slightly damp, but never wet. During dry times you should water violas one to two times weekly. Caring for violas is minimal. Just plant them, give them a drink every now and then, let them soak up some rays and Voila!
